Randall Reichmann Named President of Old National Bank Indianapolis Region

2006-02-22

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Feb. 22, 2006 (PRIMEZONE) -- Old National Bank (NYSE:ONB) announced the appointment of Randall Reichmann as president of Old National Bank Indianapolis Region. Reichmann most recently served as senior vice president for commercial banking at Huntington National Bank in Indianapolis.

"Randy is an extremely outgoing leader with extensive experience in the banking industry. He has the charisma and attitude to advance Old National Bank's presence in this growing market area," comments Mike Hinton, Chairman and CEO of Old National Bank.

Reichmann has a rich history in the financial industry. He held various management positions at Bank One prior to his most recent position as senior vice president and manager of middle market and business banking for Huntington National Bank's Indiana region.

Reichmann began his career at Reichmann Dairy Inc. in sales management and business development. In 1980, he joined Illini Production Credit Association where he advanced to vice president of credit administration/credit approval by 1984. In 1984, he joined Bank One Corporation and worked in various management roles in both their Phoenix and Indianapolis Markets.

Reichmann holds a bachelor's degree from the University of Illinois. He has also been involved in numerous community and professional organizations such as Toastmasters International, Indiana Statewide Certified Development Corporation, Boy's and Girl's Club of Central Indiana, Big Brother & Big Sisters, and United Way.
