NEWS RELEASE

TURTLE BEACH CORPORATION ANNOUNCES NEW PARTNERSHIP WITH FUEL MEDICAL GROUP, LLC FOR REVOLUTIONARY HYPERSOUND CLEAR™ DIRECTED AUDIO SOLUTION

2015-07-08

San Diego, CA – July 8, 2015 – Turtle Beach Corporation (NASDAQ: HEAR), the leading-edge audio technology company, today announced a new partnership with Fuel Medical Group, LLC, further supporting HyperSound Clear™ – the Company's first-of-its-kind directed audio solution planned to launch later this year. Fuel Medical Group is the leading provider of marketing, web development, finance, operations and human resource services to ear, nose & throat physicians, audiology clinics, hospitals, universities and other multi-specialty practices, and this new partnership will add HyperSound Clear to Fuel Medical's portfolio of non-intrusive hearing healthcare solutions as soon as it becomes available.

"HyperSound Clear has countless applications for the hearing healthcare industry and beyond in its ability to provide a crisp, immersive, 'unplugged' audio experience for people with hearing loss," said Shawn Parker, Co-Founder, Fuel Medical Group.

Parker and his business partner, Brendan Ford, had the opportunity to experience a live demonstration of HyperSound Clear at the American Academy of Audiology's Audiology Now! Conference earlier this year, and Ford states, "We're blown away by HyperSound® technology's potential as a hearing healthcare solution, and look forward to its evolution into mainstream markets. We believe this technology will be a game-changer for hearing healthcare clinics, as well as the retail industry by changing the way consumers receive targeted messages in stores, at trade shows and in other public forums."

HyperSound Clear offers a fundamentally new approach to sound delivery. Similar to how a flashlight beams a ray of light, HyperSound Clear beams sound directly to targeted listeners, which has been shown to improve sound clarity and speech intelligibility in individuals with hearing loss. When sitting in the “HyperSound beam,” people with hearing loss experience immersive, 3D audio; and at the same time, everyone else in the room hears audio at a normal volume level delivered through the TV speakers or home theater system. This means that people with hearing loss, along with family members and friends, can once again return to the family room to enjoy the latest home entertainment together.

“We’re excited to have Fuel Medical Group, one of Inc. 500’s fastest growing private companies, on-board as a partner for HyperSound Clear,” said Rodney Schutt, Senior Vice President and General Manager for the HyperSound business at Turtle Beach Corporation. “Fuel Medical Group has a unique insight into practice management, focusing on the growth of each practice and their patients, and this partnership well-suited to meet the growing demand for hearing healthcare technology.”

A recent study1 by the Hearing Industries Association reports hearing aid unit sales in the U.S. grew by 4.76% in 2014, topping 3 million units for the first time in industry history. However, these record breaking numbers are minimal considering that hearing loss impacts over 48 million Americans and an estimated 360 million people worldwide. Hearing loss is the third most common chronic physical condition in the United States.

Schutt added, “These numbers reflect the immense need for cutting-edge hearing healthcare technology in clinical settings as well as recreational entertainment, and we believe HyperSound Clear will offer a new way for people with hearing loss to once again enjoy home entertainment.”
