MANITOWOC, WI, May 5, 2026 -- Bank First (NASDAQ: BFC) employees recently participated in a variety of community service activities in recognition of Power of Community Week, an initiative led by the Wisconsin Bankers Association. The annual campaign, traditionally held in the third week of April, encourages banks to give back through volunteerism and community engagement. Bank First teams across Wisconsin and Northern Illinois supported local organizations through hands-on volunteer efforts.

"At Bank First, our promise is to be a relationship-based bank focused on serving the communities we call home," said Debbie Weyker, Senior Vice President of Marketing at Bank First. "Power of Community Week is a great reminder of that commitment, but it is not limited to one week on the calendar. Our employees give back all year long by volunteering, supporting local organizations, and showing up for our neighbors in ways that truly make a difference."

Employees volunteered with food pantries, assisted nonprofit partners, prepared meals for families in need, participated in community clean-up efforts, and helped maintain public spaces ahead of the summer season. These efforts reflect the ongoing commitment community banks have to building strong, resilient communities through relationship-based service and local support.
