CSG Invotas to Participate in SINET ITSEF 2014

ENGLEWOOD, Colo.--(BUSINESS WIRE)-- CSG Invotas, the new enterprise security business from CSG International, Inc. \(NASDAQ: CSGS\), today announced its participation at the eighth annual 2014 SINET IT Security Entrepreneurs Forum \(ITSEF\).

ITSEF is SINET's flagship event, designed to bridge the gap between the federal government and private industry. ITSEF provides a venue where entrepreneurs can meet and interact directly with leaders of government, business, and the investment community in an open, collaborative environment focused on addressing the cybersecurity challenge. Fred Brott, president of government security solutions at CSG Invotas, will be participating in a panel that addresses successful ways to bridge the IT security skills gap in the government and commercial business.

Who: Fred Brott, President of Government Security Solutions at CSG Invotas

Where: SINET, Hahn auditorium

When: Tuesday 8 April 2014, 4:30 p.m. PDT

What: Cybersecurity Automation & Capability Reorientation

- How automation and orchestration tools can reduce the cybersecurity skills gap
- Why responding to attacks in real time provides increased levels of business assurance, continuity, efficiency, and risk management; decreased technology operations costs; and the ability to protect mission-critical infrastructure continuously and securely
- The importance of choosing innovative solutions that are technology agnostic and able to work with a variety of hardware, software, and implementations
- How to implement a unified threat-response approach that dramatically improves response times, reduces risk exposure, and makes security team more valuable
