Colony Bankcorp, Inc. Announces Retirement of Director Edward P. Loomis, Jr.

2025-03-19

FITZGERALD, Ga.--(BUSINESS WIRE)-- Colony Bankcorp, Inc. (NYSE: CBAN) (“Colony” or the “Company”) today announced that Edward P. Loomis, Jr. will retire from the Board of Directors of both the Company and its wholly-owned banking subsidiary, Colony Bank, effective May 22, 2025.

Colony Bankcorp announces the retirement of Director Edward P. Loomis, Jr.

Loomis, an experienced executive officer, served as President and Chief Executive Officer of the Company and Colony Bank from May 2012 until his retirement in July 2018. During his tenure, he steered Colony out of the recession, adding new efficiencies and expanding into new markets. Loomis has been a Director of the Company since May 2012.

Commenting on the announcement, Mark H. Massee, Chairman of the Board of Directors, said, “Ed joined Colony at a pivotal time and was a stabilizing force when we needed it most. His leadership was instrumental in guiding the Bank forward, and we are grateful for his dedication. We also appreciate his commitment to ensuring a smooth transition by recruiting his successor and remaining on the Board throughout the process.”

Loomis began his banking career in 1975 at Trust Company Bank in Atlanta, Georgia, where he served as Vice President and Commercial Lender. He later held executive leadership roles at several Georgia-based financial institutions, including First Macon Bank & Trust, Atlantic Southern Bank, and Rivoli Bank and Trust, where he served as interim President and CEO in 2005.

“Ed built a strong foundation that positioned Colony for long term success. His leadership and vision helped shape the Bank’s future, and we continue to build upon the team and strategy he put in place. We are grateful for his years of service and dedication,” said T. Heath Fountain, Chief Executive Officer.
