Jacobs Receives Underground Materials Handling Contract for Newcrest's Cadia Expansion Study

2019-03-05

DALLAS, March 5, 2019 /PRNewswire/ -- Jacobs (NYSE:JEC) has been awarded a contract by Newcrest Mining Limited to provide underground materials handling services as part of the Cadia expansion feasibility study for one of Australia's largest gold mining operations located in New South Wales. This contract award builds on Jacobs' mining and minerals business and long history of working with Newcrest across the company's Cadia Valley operations.

"During the previous study phase, our mining and minerals experts helped identify a low capital intensity solution as part of an integrated team," said Jacobs Mining, Minerals and Technology Senior Vice President Andrew Berryman. "By embracing an owners' mindset and applying our experience in underground mining, materials handling and expansion projects, our integrated approach has the potential to deliver an impressive return on capital for Newcrest."

Newcrest owns and operates a portfolio of predominantly low cost, long life mines and a strong pipeline of brownfield and greenfield exploration projects, including operating mines in Australia, Papua New Guinea (PNG) and Indonesia. Jacobs has been supporting brownfield and greenfield projects across Newcrest's mining sites for more than 20 years.
