Ameris Bank Introduces Business Invoice Management and Payment Solution

2026-02-18

ATLANTA--(BUSINESS WIRE)-- Ameris Bank announced a new digital invoicing and payment platform for business clients to replace manual billing processes, reduce paper-based invoicing costs, speed payment collection, and improve business cash flow.

“The Ameris DirectBiller solution will simplify the billing process for businesses that bank with us while also providing their customers an easier way to pay invoices,” said Keith Flynn, managing director of Treasury Management for Ameris Bank. “This is particularly important for businesses with subscription-based services or a high volume of invoices because it securely streamlines payment collection and significantly reduces administrative work.”

How it Works: DirectBiller enables businesses to generate invoices digitally and send them via email, SMS, or a customer portal. Customers can access their invoices through the portal, view the details, and make payments using their preferred method. Payments are then processed through the platform, and funds are deposited directly into the business bank account.

“We are offering this solution for businesses of all sizes, but especially for commercial clients with robust receivable needs,” Flynn said. “We envision a range of industries will benefit from the new platform, including utilities, healthcare and medical organizations, government and municipal services, insurance companies, and property management associations to name a few.”

DirectBiller is now available to Ameris Bank customers. Learn more on our website.
