WASHINGTON--(BUSINESS WIRE)-- The time for change is now. As the Trusted Disruptor and the first company to make acquisition reform recommendations to the DOGE, L3Harris stands firmly aligned with Secretary Hegseth's vision for a more agile and accountable defense ecosystem.

We've embraced and invested in commercial products and business models for decades, adopting open architecture, scaling production and rapidly fielding innovative technologies. We are committed to expanding the commercial business model within a streamlined and less bureaucratic acquisition framework.

Through partnerships with new entrants and investments in venture-backed companies, we're transforming cutting-edge technology into mission-ready capability – ensuring our warfighters have unparalleled solutions ready today.
