2020-04-09

MINNEAPOLIS--(BUSINESS WIRE)-- In a time of critical need, Ameriprise Financial (NYSE: AMP) is accelerating its corporate donation schedule, making $2.5 million available immediately to nonprofits it supports. The company is expediting the grants to help cover cash flow and general operating expenses during this time of increased economic pressure on nonprofits as a result of the COVID-19 pandemic. Providing flexible support will help allow the nonprofits to continue to serve their communities and fulfill their missions.

The firm is also allocating an additional $100,000 in COVID-19 relief to Feeding America, building on its longstanding commitment to helping end domestic hunger. Since 2009, Ameriprise and its volunteers have provided more than 84 million meals and logged nearly 310,000 volunteer hours to hunger-relief organizations across the country. The company is also donating $25,000 to the Global FoodBanking Network, which helps provide meals to individuals in 30 countries around the world.

"During these difficult days, nonprofits are a lifeline to millions of people who suddenly find themselves struggling to get by," said Brian Pietsch, head of community relations at Ameriprise. "At the same time, many nonprofits themselves are facing an increased need for assistance. We are grateful for their work and proud to support these organizations whose help is more critical now than ever."
