

Ford to Webcast Fireside Chats with Company Leaders on Feb. 23 & Feb. 24

- CEO Jim Farley to discuss company's Ford+ Plan for growth at the Wolfe Global Auto Conference
- Sustainability Chief Bob Holycross and Treasurer Dave Webb to highlight Ford's ESG-related initiatives and financing actions at the RBC ESG Conference

DEARBORN, Mich., Feb. 15, 2022 – Ford Motor Company president and chief executive officer Jim Farley will participate in a virtual fireside chat with auto analyst Rod Lache at the Wolfe Research Global Auto, Auto Tech, and Mobility Conference on Wednesday, February 23 at 2:00 p.m. ET.

Farley will discuss Ford's growth opportunities in 2022 and beyond, including optimizing the transition from internal-combustion to battery-electric vehicles, software and services, and Ford Pro.

The next day on Thursday, February 24 at 9:45 a.m. ET, Bob Holycross, Ford's Chief Sustainability, Environment & Safety Officer, and Dave Webb, Treasurer, will join the RBC Global ESG Conference for a fireside chat with auto analyst Joseph Spak.

RBC's virtual event will cover Ford's ESG strategy and plans for a low carbon, electric vehicle future, and spotlight some of the ESG-related financing actions the company is taking. Among these actions were the recent launch of the first fully integrated sustainable financing framework covering both an automotive OEM and its capital finance company, and issuance of Ford's first Green Bond.

A live webcast of the fireside chats will be available at shareholder.ford.com. Participants are encouraged to register online for the events in advance at Wolfe Global Auto, Auto Tech, and Mobility Conference and RBC Global Environment, Social and Governance Conference, respectively.
