LATAM group recorded a load factor of 85.1% in October, transporting 7.9 million passengers

Operating statistics for October 2026

Santiago, November 9, 2026 – During October, LATAM group transported 7.9 million passengers, representing a 2.7% increase compared to the same month of 2025. In line with the above, LATAM group increased its consolidated capacity, measured in available seat-kilometers (ASK), by 8.1% compared to October 2025. This growth was driven by a 10.8% increase in international operations, together with a 6.3% increase in domestic operations of the affiliates in Chile, Colombia, Ecuador and Peru, and a 4.6% increase in domestic capacity offered by LATAM Airlines Brazil.

Consolidated traffic, measured in revenue passenger-kilometers (RPK), increased by 7.6% compared to October 2025, reflecting growth across all segments. International traffic stood out, with a 12.7% year-over-year increase. This was followed by traffic in the domestic markets of the affiliates in Chile, Colombia, Ecuador and Peru, with 3.8% growth, and LATAM Airlines Brazil's domestic market, which recorded a 1.1% increase.

As a result, the consolidated load factor reached 85.1% in October, remaining stable compared to the same month of the previous year.

Regarding cargo operations, capacity measured in available ton-kilometers (ATK) increased by 3.4% compared to the same month of the previous year. As a result, 89 thousand tons of cargo were transported during the month, 2.1% more than in the same period of 2025.

The following table summarizes the main operating statistics for the month and year-to-date as of October for the main LATAM group business segments:
